93 nikolay gavrilov on what prevents econ development of socialist african countries. andropov quoted on complexity of situation of these countries. some objective factors hinder their econ development such as lack of funds, of experts of experience. crisis of capitalist world has repercussions on them too, such as their aggressive econ policy. imperialism fans flame of conflicts in chad, western sahara, etc. thus these socialist countries have to increase their defense budget.

94 aleksey grigoryev, 3d in series on africa" can africa become self-sufficient in food?" agriculture remains main bottleneck in african economy; according to fao director, africa is ill and increased food production is its only chance of recovery. africa could become self-sufficient in food: even drought-stricken areas have potential. what is needed most is sweeping agricultural and social reforms in african villages, above all cooperatives. afr countries must restructure their relations with west which has marked influence on their agricultural policy. (3 min: engafr 1700 2000) independence struggle: struggle has now entered decisive stage.

most namibians support swapo but enemies of namibia's independence resist stubbornly. swapo's successes are largely due to broad intl support. user believes that this support and regional solidarity will help namibia proclaim independence in long run.
